Auxiliary Organized to Local Board No. 76

In order to "keep the home fires burning" for the boys "over here" and "over there," the Auxiliary to Local Board No. 76 was organized last week at Cosmopolitan Hall.

The objects of the Auxiliary are to give the boys the proper sendoff when they leave for camp, to keep them supplied with tobacco and reading matter and other comforts in camp, and to keep in communication with them when they have left for the battlefields of Europe; in fact, to serve the boys who are serving as best we can.

This is a local auxiliary and should have a membership of at least one thousand. It costs only one dollar to join, and every mother, father, brother, sister or friend of a soldier should join.

Attend the next big meeting to be held in Waite's Dance Hall, Cosmopolitan Block, Friday evening, June 7th, at 8 o'clock.

Swiss Meat Prices Fixed by Government

The Swiss Federal Government has by decree fixed the maximum price at which farmers may sell cattle for slaughter as well as the prices at which various qualities of butchers' meat may be retailed. Farmers may demand no more than 23 cents per pound for first-class fat beef cattle. The price applies to cattle sold on the farm. If sold in a city or other distant market cost of transportation may be added.

With the exception of sirloin and filet cuts, retailers may ask no more than 40 cents per pound for beef. The weight of bone must not exceed 25 per cent of the total weight sold.

Buy Coal Now; Do Not Wait!

As you are no doubt aware, under the zoning system of the U. S. Fuel Administrator, there will be no Pocahontas coal this year. You can't substitute Pocahontas coal with anthracite or coke. The only coal that you can buy is Illinois or Indiana coal, so we have tried out the different coals and find they are all pretty good, only some are much better than others. We have decided on "Meiner's Special" being the best substitute for Pocahontas coal. It is mined in Saline County, Southern Illinois. It burns with a long flame and deposits but a minimum amount of soot in the flues, and no clinkers. When handled by experienced help it exhibits great liveliness, yet its combination of free burning qualities permit the retaining of fires for a long period of time. As this coal is hand picked at the mines, it makes it one of the purest coals coming into Chicago.

We find there is a shortage on good bituminous coal right now. The miners are working about four days per week because they cannot get the cars. The railroads are so busy with war shipments that they cannot release many more cars. The only way we can avoid a repetition of last winter's famine is to order your full winter's supply and have it put in at once. If your coal bin is not large enough, build it larger. If you have no room in the basement, store it in the back yard. Putting off the purchase of coal may prove expensive later on, as prices no doubt will be advanced, or it may be impossible to obtain any coal at all.

We would advise you to place your requirements with us at once for our "Meiner's Special," the substitute for Pocahontas, for use in furnace, steam and hot water plants, as we are in a position to take on a limited amount of tonnage and make delivery in about 10 days.

We deliver anywhere. Call us up. Phone Stewart 70.

Every depositor who lost money in this bank should be present at this meeting that they may be told what this committee knows in regard to the condition of the affairs of this bank, which was closed over a year ago. This committee was stirred to action by a meeting held on last Saturday evening by the woman depositors, who think it time some interest was shown them.

Business Men, This Is for You

Although the recent Thrift Stamp parade in Auburn Park was quite a success, it seems that it could have been even more so had there been a certain factor in existence that was missing. This is not intended as a criticism, but is offered as a constructive suggestion.

For instance: Each of the other communities that participated in the demonstration made a more impressive appearance than Auburn Park. Why? The people composing these communities are no more patriotic than Auburn Park residents. They are no more interested in their own localities than our people are. They have no more local pride than we have. There are nowhere any more intelligent or able, capable business men and community leaders than we have right here at home and who could put over successfully many projects of vital importance to us; it could also render valuable assistance to the Government in helping to win the war by taking up the various war activities as they present themselves; and, by the magnificent results obtained, make a name for Auburn Park as the Woodlawn Business Men's Association has done for Woodlawn and the Englewood Business Men's Association for Englewood.

As for the benefits to be derived by the individual members, they are all too well known to be enumerated.

Now the only point that remains is when steps will be taken for the formulation of such an organization. Sentiment on the part of the merchants is in favor of such a proposition, necessit ydemands it and the demand becomes more insistent daily.

Why delay organizing? Why lose the advantages of organization any longer? Why run the risk of being a back number district?

Why not each and every merchant, business man or professional man constitute himself a committee of one to see that he attends a meeting for the perfection of this kind of an organization, which will be held in the near future, the time and place to be announced in the next issue of the Auburn Booster.

Americans Take Over German Fur Interests

Arrangements are being completed by which the interests of German fur men, amounting to several millions of dollars, will be purchased by American merchants an dthe money thus paid turned into the Treasury.

Before the war broke in Europe, according to a statement issued by the Alien Property Custodian, the trade of American furriers was practically nothing but a collecting and shippin gagency for the Germans. Almost every pelt taken by American trappers went to Leipzig before it could be sold. Although London was the world's market, three-quarters of the fur shipped to London from America, Russia and even China went to Leipzig for dressing and dyeing.

The Leipzig dressers and dyers were recognized as the best in the world. Each year after the fur was prepared and German merchants had fixed the price, Americans were allowed to purchase as much as three-fifths of the year's output for manufacture into garments, but in so doing they were forced to pay the original cost, expenses of dressing and dyeing, a big profit to the Germans, and a 30 per cent duty, before the furs were returned to America.

The war deprived Germany of the chance to purchase fur in London, and limited the supply from America—now also entirely cut off. In New York American dyeing houses are actually operating, and in St. Louis sealskins have been dyed successfully. According to the Alien Property Custodian, when the readjustment is completed and the German interests have been taken over by Americans, furs for European consumption will be bought in the American market, and will be American dressed and dyed.

American Teams to Teach London Game

A Committee on Public Information representative in London says:

London has never heard of a baseball season before, but will get its chance this year when the American baseball league gets its schedule of games well under way. There are eight American and Canadian teams recruited from various organizations stationed in London, with games scheduled for each Saturday during the summer.

The thousands of American soldiers who may pass through London, or be invalided or stationed here, are in a fair way to be made to feel that England is the next best place to home and that English hearts are kept warm for them.

"Make England the Sammy's 'blighty,'" is the way the English press puts it in urging readers to entertain the American troops. "Blighty" is the war word for everything the soldier wants in intervals of his fighting work; the place where friends, recreation and homelike comfort await him.

The Weekly Dispatch recently called for suggestions for a public entertainment to be offered American soldiers and an instant response made thousands of dollars available for amusements and entertainments. The idea that found greatest favor, however, was to throw open the homes of the nation to the Sammies.

An officer commanding an American squadron operating with the British fleet has reported on a late inspection and speaks in high terms of the present state of efficiency in which he finds both ships and men.

"Vessels show the most gratifying improvement in battery and fire control," he said. "Our ships are smart, spick, and span, and have been recipients of many high compliments from British flag officers."

Auburn Bank Depositors Will Meet

The committee of the depositors of the Auburn State Bank have called a meeting of all the depositors of the bank to take place at Cosmopolitan Hall, 79th and Halsted, on Wednesday evening, May 29th.

The object of the meeting is that a report may be given of the work done both by the receiver and the depositors' committee, and the present existing conditions.

There will be matters brought up of interest to every depositor in the defunct bank and a large attendance should be had.

Notice

If you have not got the ready cash to pay for your winter's supply of coal, call in person on J. B. This offer good for thirty days only, so take advantage.

Coin or Currency Not to Be Mailed to Foreign Countries

Because of numerous attempts to send through the mails to foreign countries coin and currency, the Post Office Department is again calling attention to order 731:

"In conformity with the proclamation, and the regulations thereunder, issued by the President on Sept. 7, 1917, concerning the export or shipment of coin, bullion and currency, it is hereby ordered that United States coin or currency, gold coins, whether of United States or foreign mintage, and gold bullion, are prohibited transmission through the regular or parcel post mails to countries outside of the United States and its possessions."

This prohibition does not apply to foreign currency and foreign silver coins, which remain subject to other provisions.

Ordnance Equipment Ready for Soldiers

The Army Ordnance Department has thus far met every demand imposed by the new program for overseas shipment of American troops, according to a statement by the department. Despite the great acceleration in the sending of American forces to France, no infantryman goes aboard ship without a United States Model 1917 rifle (modified Enfield), bayonet, belt, haversack, pack carrier, bandoliers, bayonet scabbard, and full mess equipment.

Tonnage is today a limiting factor in the shipment of ordnance material overseas, especially because of the present necessity of increasing the transport of infantry regiments.

Sufficient supplies of artillery—French 75 mm. and 155 mm. and American heavy railway artillery—are already in France to meet the present demand. Sufficient machine guns are also immediately available for American forces in France.

Kitchener and the Prince.

There is a story current in the army with reference to one of the Prince of Wales' early interviews with Lord Kitchener when the prince was anxious to join the forces. After long argument and discreet pointing out of possible dynastic disaster the prince broke out impetuously:

"But I don't care if I am shot!"

Kitchener is said to have replied:

"Neither do I, sir. But you can't go."

Nevertheless in the end youth and ardor prevailed, and the prince went.—London Mirror.

The Code of Honor.

Dueling is a survival from the ancient judicial combats which were at their height in the middle ages. The first formal duel among English speaking peoples was in 1096. France seems to have been the land in which the "code" had its most flourishing times. From France the practice passed over to England, and from England it came over to America. In the early days of our country duels were quite common, but since Burr killed Hamilton the practice steadily declined. It is today a very rare thing for a duel to take place in any civilized land, and in the United States the foolish custom is really extinct.—New York American.

Calumet High School Class to Entertain

The vocational graduating class of June, 1918, of the Calumet High School will give a paid entertainment, consisting of two plays, on Friday, May 31, 1918, at 8 o'clock in the evening, at the Oglesby Assembly Hall, Oglesby School, 77th and Green Sts. The admission fee has been set at 15c, so low as to make it with a the reach of every individual. Surely you, dear reader, can afford to give a little over a "bit" to help a school's magazine fund! Can't you give up your date just once and travel back to the days when a school entertainment meant so much to you? Won't you come and watch the young people of a community high school display their skill, just as you once made your showing at an entertainment similar to this? Just listen: I know the titles of the plays alone will catch your little bit of curiosity: "Too Much Bobbie" and "The Spoils of the Victors," two farces so full of fun that you will enjoy their quaint humor immensely. Those sound good, don't they? Well, the parts in them are just as good. So come!

More than 2,000,000 members of American fighting forces are now insured by the United States Government, and approximately 11,000 applications are being received daily. Application for insurance must be made within 120 days after joining the service.

Emergency Shoehorn.

Once when I had been in swimming I found myself without a shoehorn, but a friend showed me a little trick that supplied my need. Simply fold your handkerchief two or three times and lay it on the shoe at the heel, holding one end of it. As you press your heel down into the shoe gradually draw on the end of the handkerchief, and when the heel is nearly all the way down draw out the improvised horn. The shoe will slip on the foot easily.—Popular Science Monthly.

Richter's Conducting.

It is difficult to define just what differentiates a good conductor from a mere time beater, but a story that is told of Richter may help indirectly. In the prelude to "Tristan und Isolde" occurs a beautiful passage for the oboe, which rises, swells and dies away to a pianissimo most effectively. To indicate the quality of the playing which he wanted from this instrument, Richter, beating the time with his right hand, placed his left hand over his heart, and the oboe player at once responded to a direction all inclusive in its simplicity and intelligibility.

Sun Rooms.

One of the first sun rooms of which there is any record was in Madrid, at the home of Canovas del Castillo, prime minister during the regency. Dinner used to be served at one end of the conservatory, in the shadow of tall palms, while fountains played, birds with gay plumage sang, and the air was as fragrant as the tropics. For comfort deep red rugs were put down on the white marble floors.

Legs of a Snake.

The people of Uruguay have some queer ideas and superstitions. One of them is that if one throws a live snake into a fire it will stick out its legs, which it keeps concealed under its scales. This idea probably arose from the scales sticking outward as the snake felt the heat.

Army Rifles of Europe.

The German Mauser can fire faster than any other rifle used by the armies of Europe. The magazine holds five cartridges, packed in chargers.

The British rifle is the outcome of the South African war. It holds ten cartridges and is sighted from 200 to 2,800 yards.

The Italian Mannlicher-Carcano is rather slow, discharging but fifteen rounds of shot a minute.

The French Lebel is the longest rifle. The tube magazine under the barrel holds eight cartridges. The bullet used in it weighs 198 grains.

The Russian rifle is seven inches longer than the British. It is capable of firing twenty-four bullets to the minute. The bayonet is always fixed.

The Austrian rifle is the lightest of all, yet its bullet, 244 grain, is the heaviest used by any of the powers. It is very rapid in action.

The Belgian Mauser of 1889 holds five cartridges carried in clips. It cannot be used as a single loader. It weighs over eight pounds.

Do not be afraid, do not cry out, for life is good. I came from low down, from the cellar of life, where darkness and terror reign, where man is half beast and life is only a fight for bread. Walk For Health.

A state board of health advises: "Take time to walk—or make time to walk. The pernicious habit of hopping on a trolley car to go a block or two robs many of the necessary health preserving exercise they should have. Walk for health!"

The recommendation is sound, but why should those who ride in automobiles be left out? The inveterate users of motorcars need to be told to walk more quite as much as the rest of us. Nowhere is the riding habit easier to acquire than where an automobile is at beck and call. Even the workers who deem the trolley car a necessity would often be advantaged by keeping their nickels in their own pockets and thereby inviting more physical and mental vigor. We are all sinners when it comes to the failure to keep in touch with the open.—Springfield Republican.

HOW TO TEST DIAMONDS AND NOT BUY PASTE.

—Well made imitation diamonds commonly scratch glass, but they do not cut it. A real diamond drawn lightly over the surface cuts the glass so completely that the slightest blow will cause a separation. Another old test is that in which a file is employed. In the case of a real stone it is impossible to make any impression with the implement. An imitation article is easily marked. Or the suspected gem may be placed between two coins and pressed hard with the fingers. It will be impossible to make the slightest impression on a real diamond, but in the case of a paste article the edges may be crushed. The effect can be discerned by a critical examination with a lens

When a diamond is quite clean and dry carry out the following experiment: Place on the surface a tiny drop of water. Now take a needle or pin and try to move the drop about. If the diamond is genuine the drop can be rolled about intact. On the other hand, where the gem is an imitation the water spreads directly it is touched with the needle point.

Another very good test may be carried out with a tumbler of water. Into this put the suspected article and examine its appearance. A real diamond will show up in the water with startling clearness, and it can never be confounded with the water. On the other hand, the imitation looks indefinite, and it is sometimes difficult to see it clearly at all.

Generally speaking, the facets in a real diamond are not cut so truly as those in the imitation. This is on account of the fact that diamonds are sold by weight; hence the cutter tries to preserve as much of the original as possible, even making small sacrifices in the matter of regularity. In the case of a paste article or a cheaper stone no such need arises, and the cutter endeavors to make the stone appear as perfect in shape as possible. To observe such irregularities as sometimes occur in a real diamond it is needful to examine it with great care.

Pot and Kettle.

There is a proverb much heard nowadays that we never could see the sense of, "The pot can't call the kettle black." Why not, we should like to know? The kettle is black. It ought to be called black. Who has a better right to speak with confidence about the faults of the kettle than the pot, which has for years hung on the same crane and inhaled the same smoke? If there is anything that would make the pot seem less sooty in our eyes it is giving us a clear reflection of the image of the kettle. Shall no one point out blackness anywhere unless he knows himself to be speckless? Would the pot rise in our estimation if it followed the custom of its critics and said, "The kettle is white, as white as I am?"—Independent.

New York City's Bridges.

Irrespective of the elevated railroad system comprising the Second, Third, Sixth and Ninth avenue lines and the elevated portions of the Broadway and Lenox avenue sections of the subway, New York city has forty-two bridges spanning the East and Harlem rivers, Newtown creek and other waterways. These roads over rivers, including the Brooklyn, Manhattan, Williamsburg and Queensboro spans, among the greatest in the world, represent, with the real estate requisite for their approaches, an investment by the municipality of more than $135,000,000.

Never cook mushrooms a second time. If this is done they may develop unwholesome or dangerous qualities.

TO SILVER MIRRORS.

How They Should Be Treated With a Nitrate Solution.

Thoroughly clean the surface with soap and warm water, to which add a few drops of lye. Rub the surface dry and then keep it covered to protect from dust. A wall of putty or clay should be built about two inches away from the spot to be repaired, being very careful not to touch the clean surface. This is to serve as a reservoir for the silvering bath. For each nine square inches to be covered pour one-half ounce of a 3 per cent solution of silver nitrate. To this add ammonia water, drop by drop, until a light brown sediment appears and does not dissolve. There should be a very small quantity of this sediment produced.

Dissolve a piece of glucose about one-fourth inch square in a half ounce of water. Warm the solution and add to the nitrate solution on the mirror, which should be in a warm place protected from dust and allowed to remain for twelve hours. Pour off the solution, dry, remove all traces of putty, etc., then cover the entire surface with shellac.

Diluted nitric acid will dissolve the silvering from a piece of glass.

How to Kill Moths, and Other Useful Household Hints.

Here is an excellent way to kill moths in carpets which never fails. Wring a coarse crash towel out of water and spread it smoothly on the carpet, iron it dry with a good hot iron, repeating the operation on all parts of the carpet infested with moths. There is no need to press hard, and neither the pile nor the color of the carpet will be injured, and the moths will be destroyed by the heat and steam.

Irons wiped on a cloth dampened with kerosene will not scorch clothes.

Kerosene used to moisten stove polish makes stoves look like new.

Salt and water removes the lime in new curtains and makes washing easier.

Washing fabrics that are inclined to fade should be soaked and rinsed in very soft water to set the color before washing in suds.

To clean a burned pan dip a hard crust of bread in kitchen salt and rub the burned portion, then wash in hot soda and water.

How to Make a Watch Dial Luminous.

The first thing to do is to procure an ounce of calcium sulphide, luminous. The cost since the war is $1 or more an ounce, but you can fix fifty watches with that amount. This element absorbs light and after being exposed to any bright light for five minutes will glow with a purple light for about four hours, says the Popular Science Monthly.

Remove the crystal from the watch to be treated and with a pen dipped in shellac go over the numerals and the hands. Some may prefer to make dots only at the numerals. Pour out the calcium on a clean piece of paper, dip your finger in it and press some on the moist shellac. Allow about five minutes for it to dry. The calcium not used may be returned to the bottle.

Average of Wind.

Some builders of windmills estimate that a wind sixteen miles an hour may be expected for eight hours per day on the average for every day in the year. This does not mean that such a wind can be relied upon every day in the year, but that the average wind all the year round would equal sixteen miles an hour for eight hours every day.—London Standard.

Servants as Hosts.

A curious custom exists in the town of Port of Spain, in the island of Trinidad. Every year the servants, who are all black, give a grand ball for their masters and mistresses. The Princes building, a huge place where all public entertainments are held, is engaged, and everything is done in the best style. There are two halls for dancing, one for the servants and the other for their guests.

The best band in the island is engaged, and the guests are given a banquet.

Etiquette is very strict and precedence rigidly observed by the servants, the governor's butler and his lady going in before the chief justice's groom, and so on.

Thought Drinking Only a Fashion.

Charles Booth, the economist, who regarded drink as one of the most prolific causes of pauperism, thought the drinking habit was principally a matter of fashion, rapidly passing away among the upper classes, while among the middle classes it was preserved as a "social necessity," men treating each other to drinks they would perhaps sooner be without. Among the poor men drank to excess from a perverted pride. "The whole thing," he declared, "is so baseless that it is conceivable it might very rapidly come to an end. The cure lies, I think, not so much in a total abstinence propaganda, though that is indirectly useful, as in the raising of the whole standard of life."

'Up the Road With Sallie'

That was some road which Sallie traveled when she came into her share of a relative's fortune. And the accounting of how she spent the money must have made the hair of her deceased benefactor stand up in horror, especially if he or she hadn't a sense of humor. Lucky for Sallie, she was so full of the love of life and a superabundance of energy and vivacity that she came out without a scratch. Constance Talmadge is delightfully amusing as the errant Sally. This is spoken of by the critics as one of the best comedy dramas of the year.

'Rich Man Poor Man'

'Member the old rhyme you used, to count off the buttons on your frock when you were a kiddie, to find out what kind of a husband you were going to get when you grew up? Well, Betty Wynne didn't exactly count buttons, but she never knew from one day to the next whether she was rich, or whether she wasn't. And there were two men who mixed upon the matter, and it was a terrible thing, unravelling them, so it was. Marguerite Clark is the winsomest sprite you most ever saw, and you will just love the story.

See Actual United States Marines in Action

Cast from U. S. M. C.—Major Thomas Holcomb, Major Ross, E. Rowell, Captain Thomas Sterrett, Lieut. J. P. Burke, Sergeant Moss Gill, Sergeant Percy Dobb, Corporal Bob Ryland, etc.—Sixth Battalion, U.S.M.C. Authentic military atmosphere is given to "The Unbeliever." Nothing more realistic than the scenes in the trenches, the charges across No Man's Land and the hand-to-hand encounters between Marine and Boche has been seen on any screen.

"The Unbeliever" is a really great photoplay and a distinct contribution to American war drama. This picture has been referred to as the greatest play since "THE BIRTH OF A NATION." Actually produced with the co-operation of officers and men of the United States Marine Corps.

He will not stand for it.

Decline of Divorce in Japan.

Half of the population of Japan is from twenty to sixty-five years of age, and one-third of the entire population is married. The ratio of divorces for every 1,000 population has decreased in the last generation from nearly three to one and one-fourth, but even at present it is a source of deep anxiety on the part of unmarried statisticians.—Christian Herald.

Make sure of doing one unselfish deed each day, and soon you will be acting unselfishly all day long.

goes on just as in a brewery, and the poisonous carbonic acid is made in large quantities. If you breathed a few days' output of carbonic acid gas you would inevitably die. Sulphuretted hydrogen is one of the most deadly gases known, yet in every stomach it is made at one time or another. In the stomach all food is converted into what we call "peptone," and if a very small quantity of this found its way into the blood it would kill as surely as prussic acid.—Pearson's Weekly.

Luke McLuke Says:

What has become of the old fashioned pink sea shell that used to repose on the old fashioned whatnot?

There is something wrong with the man who doesn't feel good when a friend has a streak of good luck.

A young man doesn't know it. But the boss can tell the man who is capable of doing a higher class of work by watching how he does the small jobs he is started in on.

There are lots of people who will tell you that the latchstring is always out. But they do not mention the fact that there is a bulldog loose in the front yard.

Some men are so worried over the European situation that they can't hold their own.

A man will always agree with you when you tell him that he is over worked and needs a rest.

A sob sister claims that a kiss should last for at least thirty seconds. Huh! Three seconds is long enough for a wife to find out what she wants to know.

What He Missed.

There's no use talking about it, when you get the public to the point where it understands one kind of art you ought to lead it by easy stages to the next higher variety. Don't spring it all at once on them. A few days ago we said to a friend of ours:

"Saw you going over to the Art museum yesterday. How did you like it?"

"Oh, the pictures were pretty good," he answered, "but there weren't any jokes under them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Why do you believe in that fool superstition that it is unlucky to have thirteen people at dinner?" asked Mr. Gabb.

"Because I have only twelve knives and twelve forks," replied Mrs. Gabb.

Fact.

Don't chide the man who smites your cheek,
Forgive him, oh, my brother!
And you'll find that the nervy geek
Will smite you on the other.
